

After a couple of attempts to take a group of volunteer SOTC members to do a final garden and yard cleanup at the Alex Community Food Centre, and being thwarted by inclement weather, we decided to "just do it" or some of it on the third try, despite the cold weather! With a smaller, but mighty, group of volunteers, we made short order of moving dirt and things, and sweeping up for a tidier space that is ready to take materials for composting over the winter.

Many thanks go to Rose, Michael and Judy for bearing the cold weather and joining me and Joanna to clean up the greenhouse, under a propane tower heater, at the Alex Community Food Centre on October 25th!

Joanna said we are welcome to return when the materials arrive to see how they will manage the compost piles over the winter so they are ready in the spring (and, while we're there, perhaps to help turn the dirt 😊). Folks who are interested in seeing this, from an expert gardener and landscaper, Joanna at the Alex CFC, let me know to let you know!

In the meantime, stay warm and safe!

Thanks!
